

TIP OF THE MONTH

When your ball rests between the collar and rough, putting can be difficult because the taller grass behind the ball can catch or slow down the putter. Instead, try intentionally "skulling"

a wedge. Using a putting style stroke, contact the middle of the ball with the leading edge of the club. This creates a small hop that gets the ball over the taller grass before it lands and rolls like a putt. It's a simple shot that takes the rough out of play and can make distance control much easier from an awkward lie.
